INTERIM SUBCOMMITTEES

STUDIES
DESIGNATED

The Legislative Council designated all ten studies called for by Joint Resolutions during the session. The Council suggested that the Subcommittees designated to study insurance laws (HJR 29) and community colleges (HJR 45) consider subordinating those studies to other assigned work. Assignment of all studies was made based on the assessment that sufficient resources are available to conduct the studies although members will be required to work very hard. Several members have asked why a poll was conducted if all studies were to be assigned. The answer is twofold. First, and most important, is that the statute requires the poll. Second is that it was only after analysis by staff and the Council itself that it was determined that the ten studies could be assigned.

FIVE-STATE CONFERENCE

The Legislative Council appointed Representative Rex Manuel and Senator Jack Galt to serve on the Five-State Water Task Force. The Task Force was established at the 1981 Five-State Conference to facilitate the sharing of information among the five states.

ARE YOU INTERESTED?

The Legislative Council budget will allow for 15 legislators to attend the Five-State Conference. If you would like to be designated to attend, please return the enclosed form or otherwise contact the Legislative Council. The Wyoming host committee has given the following information.

CONFERENCE DETAILS

The Conference will be held in Cody, Wyoming on September 25-27, 1983. The discussion topics will be:

- Water
- Health Care Cost Containment
- Legislative Staff Services
- Tax Structures, Revenues and Competing Demands
- Economic Development and Tourism

The format for panel discussions will be the same as for past conferences, with each state providing one panelist for each topic. However, it has been suggested we approach the presentation a bit differently with regard to at least two topics.

For the water discussion it was suggested that rather than each state presenting a recap of their water laws and administrative problems, they discuss a water project, litigation, or some subject somewhat unique to the individual state. Senator Wagner, when in Cody, suggested an explanation of the Pick-Sloan Act might be helpful. The sale of water for the ETSI pipeline by South Dakota and related problems might be interesting.

Water litigation experience is always helpful. Wyoming might discuss its joint venture with the Bureau of Reclamation for enlargement of the Buffalo Bill Dam near Cody, among other things. The point of the suggestion is to zero in on specific problems and solutions experienced by each state, which might provide guidance to the other states.

For the Health Care Cost Containment discussion, Wyoming intends to invite a nonlegislator to be a panelist.

Wyoming feels the Conference would be better served by hearing a knowledgeable person with specific suggestions rather than a general discussion of the problem, which everyone concedes exists. The suggestion was made to invite panelists who have special knowledge in this subject such as health care administrators, insurers, providers, etc., even though they may represent a special interest, in the hope that from their discussion will evolve more light than heat. Wyoming feels it can provide better discussion through a nonlegislator panelist and wants the other states to feel free to do so if they so desire.

Alan Rosenthal, Director of the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers University, has accepted an invitation to be the keynote speaker at the dinner Monday night. He will also be available to moderate the panel discussion of legislative staff services on Tuesday. He is a very interesting, knowledgeable and entertaining speaker of national renown, and the Conference is very fortunate to have him. Unfortunately, Secretary James Watt was unable to accept an invitation. Commissioner Robert Broadbent of the Bureau of Reclamation has been invited to address the Conference and participate in the water discussions, as has Lavon D. Loynd, an attorney from Rigby, Idaho. Mr. Loynd is a member of the faculty for the judicial college conducted in Reno, Nevada. Neither Mr. Broadbent nor Mr. Loynd are confirmed as yet.

ADMINISTRATIVE CODE COMMITTEE

MEETING HELD
JUNE 10

MEDICAID RULES

The Administrative Code Committee met on June 10, 1983, and, among other agenda items, reviewed and held a hearing on rules proposed by the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services to allocate state medicaid funds appropriated by the 48th Legislature to reimburse providers for nursing and intermediate care services. Several health care associations had objected to the proposed rules, which would have frozen reimbursement rates at their current level for the first six months of Fiscal Year 1984. After hearing testimony, the Committee asked the Department not to adopt the proposed freeze, and to work with the objecting organizations to resolve any differences over other portions of the proposed rules. The rules have now been adopted by the Department without the proposed freeze.

RULES COSTS TO RISE

The Committee also heard testimony from the Secretary of State's Office, which prints and distributes the Montana Administrative Register and Administrative Rules of Montana, recommending that the per page filing fee charged to administrative agencies by the Secretary's office for the filing of proposed and adopted rules, be increased from the current $13.50 per page to $30.00 per page, and that the cost of subscriptions to the ARM and MAR also be increased. The Committee voted to approve the proposed increases, as they have been made necessary by increased legislative appropriations from the fee-supported revolving fund. A hearing will be held by the Secretary's office on the proposed increases on July 20. The increases are scheduled to go into effect on August 12, 1983.

PRE-1975 RULES TO BE REVIEWED

On other topics, the Committee discussed the method to be used by the Committee and its staff for the review of administrative rules adopted prior to the creation of the Committee in 1975. The study is required by House Bill 59 of the 48th Legislature, and will be based on a computer search to identify those pre-1975 rules which were not originally reviewed by the Committee. The rules will be reviewed to determine whether they are still compatible with the laws they implement. State agencies will be asked to respond to the Committee's findings.
